Cats in the wild are largely nocturnal hunters, with a preference for dawn and dusk, when their natural prey species are more active. Their hearing is ultra-sensitive and, as the sun sets, their sight and hearing become much more acute, allowing them to be effective hunters in the dark. Domestic cats retain these natural instincts and are often playful and active during the night. Petstages' Night-Time Toys offer quiet, interesting play that appeal to the changes in their key senses after sundown, yet won't disturb your sleep!
